Dinner Topic: “Elimination of Bias in Intellectual Property”

Tuesday, January 14, 2014

The California Club

538 S. Flower St. ▪ Los Angeles, CA 90071 ▪ Business Attire

Reception & Dinner: 6:00 p.m. – 8:00 p.m. ▪ 1 Hour MCLE Credit – Elimination of Bias

Dinner: Need those hard-to-get CLE credits for Elimination of Bias in the Legal Profession before the February compliance deadline? Then, join LAIPLA at the January Dinner Meeting, where Alston & Bird partners, Rachel Capoccia and Dominique Shelton will present an exciting, thought-provoking take on the topic. The discussion promises to involve cases with risqué and juicy details we don’t typically equate with Intellectual Property, so the meeting will be interesting even if you don’t need CLE credits!

Rachel Capoccia focuses on intellectual property litigation with an emphasis on patent, copyright, and other technology-related litigation. A seasoned litigator with experience in all phases of patent litigation, Ms. Capoccia has represented clients in patent infringement matters involving diverse areas of technology, including digital cameras, software, biotechnology, telecommunications, video and audio conferencing systems, as well as medical devices. In addition to maintaining a robust practice, Rachel is an adjunct professor of copyright law at the University of Southern California Law School. Her legal experience is complemented by 10 years working at IBM as a software engineer before law school, during which she led a team of engineers who developed computer graphics software and computer aided design systems.

Dominique Shelton focuses on complex commercial litigation with an emphasis on intellectual property and privacy, as well as unfair competition and antitrust matters. She also provides strategic compliance counseling in digital marketing and data privacy on cutting-edge issues, such as mobile privacy, Big Data, Do Not Track, and behavioral advertising. In 2012, she was named Intellectual Property Lawyer of the Year by the Century City Bar Association. Dominique has litigated matters across various areas including the Fair Credit Reporting Act, Telephone Consumer Protection Act, Federal Trade Commission Act, Electronic Communications Privacy Act, Computer Fraud & Abuse Act, California False Advertising Law (Business & Professions Code §17500), California Unfair Competition Law and California Penal Code § 502. She has also negotiated with the CA AG and the FTC. Her clients come from a broad spectrum of industries such as media and entertainment, technology, broadcasting, digital sales and marketing, advertising, wireless/mobile, Internet, lead generation, manufacturing and electrical, software, telecommunications, legal services, automotive parts and services, dietary supplement, food and health/beauty.
